MUSICAL PLAY A TRIUMPH FOR HIGHS

THE GLEE CLUB GIRLS WIN PRAISE FOR "EGYPTIAN PRINCESS" PRODUCTION

A pleasant surprise was given the large audience at the Duncan opera house last night that witnessed the High School Girls Glee club's operetta, "The Egyptian Princess," a two-act production. The source of surprise was that an amateur organization could stage so difficult a piece in such an excellent way. The play was excellent in itself but the manner in which was given is what made it a success. The High School Girls Glee club played exceptionally well and did credit to the school.

The locale of the play is Egypt, and the story deals with the course of affairs at the king's court, weaving in a pretty narrative in which a slave girl, a foreign queen, is captured by the king's army and when brought into the court discovers that Alva, a servant in the royal retinue, is her sister. The play ends by both being freed and happiness reigning, and the pretty Princess Alva united in matrimony with a prince of Tunis, her lover. Many clever songs and other interesting features are woven into the play.

The entire cast played well, and credit for the excellent work is due not only to those who had prominent parts but to all. Perhaps the most charming character was Miss Elizabeth Coors, a young lady of fair beauty, who carried the role of the Princess Alva. Miss Coors sang exceptionally well and acted her role as the princess in a manner that was pleasing. Miss DeSalx Evans, Queen of Egypt, also played well. She looked like a queen, garbed in her gorgeous robes. Miss Chella Van Potten as Alva scored a hit with her singing and acting. Miss Van Potten was among the leading characters, and was perfectly at home on the stage. Miss Leona Greenclay, as a solo dancer, scored a hit with her charming interpretation of an Egyptian dance. Miss Greenclay is a young lady of dark beauty and in the part of a solo dancer she was decidedly popular. Miss Alice Connell, the queen who was captured by the king's army, had perfect enunciation, and although her part was short, she proved one of the best liked characters. Every member of the cast is entitled to great credit.

The closing of the first act was perhaps the prettiest scene in the entire play, when light effects were used. The pretty crimson light threw a glowing reflection all over the stage, displaying the elaborate costumes of the cast in a charming way.

The success of the play is due to Miss Chell Crozier, musical instructor of the city schools. Miss Crozier has been in Las Vegas only since the opening of the schools last fall and the result of her efforts, as displayed by the Girls Glee club last night, demonstrates her ability.

The attendance was large, which added to the success of the production.

HOMER F. TILTON DEAD AFTER BRAVE FIGHT

END CAME EARLY THIS MORNING AND WAS A SHOCK TO HIS FRIENDS

Homer F. Tilton died suddenly early this morning in his room at St. Anthony's sanitarium. Mr. Tilton had been a sufferer from tuberculosis for several years. His condition had been growing steadily worse for several months. During the fall and winter he was prostrated twice and was obliged to keep to his room. Since his last sinking spell, which occurred several weeks ago, he failed to gain. His death came unexpectedly to his wife and friends. Mr. Tilton maintained until the last that he would recover. His will power and hope were something to be marveled at.

Mr. Tilton was born in Newton Highlands, Mass., February 12, 1886. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Tilton, prominent people of Massachusetts. He completed the work of the Newton high school and then went to Amherst college, where he was a student for three years. He was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity of Amherst.

After leaving school Mr. Tilton was advertising manager for the well known publication "The National Sportsman." His health failing, he went into the mountains of Maine, where he spent some time in the effort to rid himself of his disease. The climate in Maine not having worked any lasting improvement, Mr. Tilton came to Las Vegas in February, 1911. His health seemed to improve and in the fall of that year he secured employment with the state engineer's office. He worked in the improvement of the scenic highway and in the southern part of the state.

In the fall of 1912 Mr. Tilton began working as a reporter for The Optic. His college education, ready making of friendships and natural "nose for news" made him a valuable man on the staff of the paper, and his death brought sincere regret to the entire force.

In the spring of last year, Mr. Tilton was married to Miss Margarette Rudolph. Their union was a most happy one. They spent the summer at El Porvenir and other mountain resorts, returning to Las Vegas last fall.

Mr. Tilton's death will bring sincere regret to his many friends. He was a capable young man. His cheerful disposition, though he met many discouragements in his fight against the great white plague, showed the nobility of his character.

PIONEER CITIZEN OF LAS VEGAS IS DEAD

COLONEL WILLIAM H. SEEWALD CAME HERE THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

At 8 o'clock this morning William H. Seewald, one of Las Vegas' most beloved citizens and one who has resided here continually for nearly 35 years, died after a long illness. Residents of this city for many years have known and loved William Henry Seewald, honored by his friends by the title of colonel.

Mr. Seewald's death was not sudden, yet his friends, numbered by his acquaintances, were shocked and grieved to learn of it. Colonel Seewald had been ill and in a precarious condition of health for the past six years, but his strong constitution and determination sustained him until last night when he slowly began to decline, and gradually grew weaker until death occurred.

Colonel Seewald was 78 years of age. He was born in 1836 at Tiffin, Ohio, where he spent his early days and obtained his early education, which was limited by circumstances. In 1856 he moved to Fort Smith, Ark., where he resided, with the exception of the war period, until 1879 when he came to New Mexico. At the opening of the civil war, Colonel Seewald enlisted and fought through the entire four years. He served in the confederate army. Upon coming to New Mexico, Colonel Seewald located in this city and continued residence here until the time of his death. The change of location to New Mexico was for the benefit of his health, which had been impaired from asthma.

Up until a few years ago Colonel Seewald had continued his business here, that of a jeweler and watchmaker. His ability in this line was such that he was known to be one of the best in the state. Colonel Seewald was one of a family of watchmakers. For generations members of his family have been similarly employed.

Colonel Seewald is survived by one brother, Philip Henry Seewald of Hudson, Michigan, now children, P. H. Seewald, of Amarillo, Texas, Mrs. H. G. Coors of this city, Mrs. A. E. Marsh of this city, and Mrs. F. C. Fenner of Los Angeles, Calif. Another son, W. M. Seewald, died in this city in 1908. He also is survived by a number of grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Colonel Seewald was married twice. Neither wife survived him.

Colonel Seewald died at the Las Vegas hospital where he has been a patient for the past 10 months. Prior

The first of the series of three games to be played between the basketball team of St. George, Kas., and the Y. M. C.
